

HENRY MILLER, THE CATTLE KING, IS DEAD IN CALIFORNIA CITY

Head of the Miller and Lux Firm Passes Out—He Was the Largest Land and Cattle Owner in the U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 17.—Henry Miller, the "Cattle King" of the west, is dead.

Henry Miller, once a poor butcher boy of San Francisco, owned at the time of his death an empire in the west described as "twice the size of Belgium" and because of his vast holdings of sheep and cattle, he was known along the Pacific slope as "The Cattle King."

He never knew himself exactly how much land he held. Several years ago experts estimated approximately 22,717 square miles or 14,539,200 acres were under his control, mostly in California, Nevada and Oregon. Miller it has been said, could drive a herd of cattle from Arizona to Oregon, through the great central California valley and each night camp on his own land. At no stage of his trip would he be out of sight of one of his own ranches.

Great Business Enterprise.
More land was held on the Pacific coast by Miller than by any other individual. At times 150,000 cattle and 100,000 sheep grazing on western pastures bore the "M" brand. The firm of Miller and Lux, in which Miller was heavily interested, was in the cattle business and operated a chain of slaughter houses, banks, stores and hotels, in addition to the ranches and ranges. The manager and clerks were numbered by hundreds and vaqueros were paid in scores. Traction engines were bought by the dozen and barbed wire fencing and seed by the carload. They reckoned in miles not acres.

Friends said Henry Miller's policy was always to buy and never to sell. As a boy he had visions of wealth, he bought land when the Spanish and American governments sold it cheap, hoarded his property and lived his dream.

Born in Germany.

Miller was born in Brackenheim, Wurttemberg, July 21, 1827. When 20 years old he emigrated to America, penniless, and worked as a butcher boy in the Washington market in New York City. In 1849 gold was discovered in California and Miller followed the hordes of gold seekers to the Pacific. In 1850 he was still a butcher boy in San Francisco.

In 1851 he launched into business for himself. He met Charles Lux and six years later the two formed the partnership that later helped make history on western ranges. Their most active days were when the great sweeps of the California valleys stretched fenceless from the Sierra Nevada foothills to the Coast Range mountains, and when the vast land grants were devoted mainly to cattle raising. Gradually they watched the settlers come, saw their ranches marked off by barbed wire and orchards grow up where cattle had formerly roamed.

Miller married in 1860 Miss Sarah Wilmarth Sheldon. In 1887 Lux died and the business was incorporated. Miller retaining large interests. In his later years Miller remained in the seclusion of his San Francisco home with his daughter, seldom visiting his many ranches. He was the last of the great California land barons. Disinclination of his domains probably will come soon for conservation policies, high land taxes and clamoring settlers make the cattle empires of old impossible.

sought to quiet the crowd. He finally made himself heard.

"Let the gentleman ask any question he wants to," the nominee said. "What do you want to say, sir?" Among hisses and boo's the man asked his question, waving the stick in his hands.

"Evidently according to what you said," the man began, "the labor field has taken you from the bench and put you up as their standard bearer. Is that right?"

There were cries of "No! No!" and "Put him out." It was some time before Mr. Hughes could make himself heard. "One moment," the nominee shouted to the crowd, "One moment please."

When some sort of order was restored the nominee went on: "I am not here, sir, as the standard bearer of any one group or set but desire to serve the whole of the American people."

The house roared again, the heckler sat down and the nominee went on with his speech.

"There has been recently a statement that in some way I have become a sponsor for invisible government. Such a preposterous charge needs no attention and yet I should like to take advantage of the fact that it has been uttered to remind the American people of one or two things.

"In the first place, during my governorship at Albany there was no barter of appointments for legislation.

"In the next place, legislation was considered upon its merits in the open.

"There was no semblance of invisible government. You cannot find a man in New York state who would stand up and honestly say that during my term there was a suggestion of any secret or improper influence with respect to executive action at all times.

RALPH HERZ IS ADDED TO THE METRO STARS

"The Purple Lady" With Popular Actor Appears at the Orpheum Theatre.

"The Purple Lady," which appears at the Orpheum today, is the first Metro-Rette Photoplays production to present that wonder of versatility, Ralph Herz, than whom there is not a more distinguished actor in America. "Ruggles of Red Gap" was the latest appearance of Mr. Herz on the speaking stage, and prior to that he was seen in "The Soul Kiss," "Dr. De Luxe," "The Charity Girl," and other stage successes. Associated with him in "The Purple Lady" is beautiful Irene Hawley, one of the screen's favorite actresses.

This five-part drama was directed by George A. Lessey. The photo-play is adapted from the play of the same name by the brilliant writer of stage triumphs, Sidney Rosenfeld. The names of both Mr. Herz and Mr. Rosenfeld are as well known in Europe as they are in this country.

"The Purple Lady" presents a most delightful contrast. It introduces into the gayest, most up-to-date tango parlor the members of the Uplift Society, who are attempting to reform the world. Thus "Uncle Silas" Gilvorty meets the dashing Fin Melotte, but instead of being shocked, he is enchanted. He comes to pray, but remains to dance the tango. He and Fin take a trip to Coney Island, and loop the loop and otherwise amuse themselves. The scene changes again to the fashionable summer home of a multi-millionaire on Long Island, where Adelaide, the daughter of the Severns, waits somewhat impatiently for "Uncle Silas," who is her fiance.

Events move swiftly, as they must wherever the fascinating Fin Melotte is to be found. Count Louis Petreier demands the aid of Fin and Jules Bergere, the proprietor of the Purple Lightning Cafe, in disposing of a superb necklace of matched pearls, which he has stolen. How these adorn first Fin, then in turn come into the possession of Silas, Adelaide, Fin again, the detective and the detective's wife, is told with a breathless interest in "The Purple Lady," which finishes with a real surprise. Comedy as well as thrilling situations abound in this gripping detective story.

GIRLS! HAVE WAVY, THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Save your hair; Double its beauty in a few minutes—try this!

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made. We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and youthful with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mossy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply rub it on your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
